Two voices coming together in Europe

Joanna Davis

A CHOIR took part in memorable concerts in Lithuania.

The One Voice Choir of Weymouth travelled to Panevezys last month and saw their singing talents praised by the British ambassador to Lithuania.

The trip was a homecoming for Grazina Ellis, the choir's musical director, who hails from Lithuania.

She arranged for the choir to join with local students at an annual music festival in the two final concerts.

Months of planning for the five day visit of a group of 25 ended with members joining with 48 youth singers together with a youth orchestra numbering 50. For the visitors there was the challenge of singing some songs in Lithuanian.

The concert, attended by 420 people, began with the English composer Albert Ketelbey's picturesque In a Monastery Garden, John Rutter's I Will Sing with the Spirit and preceded two local songs.

Also on the programme were Nella Fantasia in Italian,

CHOIR: Performers at one of the concerts in Lithuania which the One Voice Choir took part in featuring a local soloist with One Voice and then the Rhythm of Life.

Two exciting songs followed and then a Negro Spiritual Hold on to the Rock, featuring soloist Maggie Tetlow.

Acting British ambassador Andy Pearce told the choir:

"Journeying down from the capital Vilnius to the concert I had no idea what to expect. I think you have made a little piece of paradise. Lithuanian and British performing, singing and working together in harmony, energy and warm spirit."

Screening on why plastic is not so fantastic

SEE the multi award-winning film A Plastic Ocean at the RNLI College, Poole tomorrow.

Proceeds will be shared between the RNLI and the Plastic Ocean Foundation which aims to raise awareness of the global issue of plastic waste pollution in seas.

The screening will be followed by a live Q&A session with Jo Ruxton, one of the film's producers.

Anna Frizzell, RNLI sustainability manager said: "Each year around eight million tonnes of plastic ends up in our oceans and estimates state that if we do nothing by 2050 there could be more plastic by weight in the oceans than fish."

Tickets are £7.50 for adults, £4.50 for children from RNLI.org/PlasticOcean, plus booking fee.
